CONTRIBUTION OF YOUNG PEOPLE

INTRODUCTION

Young people are growing up in a complex, digital world where the boundaries between online and offline are becoming progressively more blurred. Therefore, it is imperative that we provide our pupils with the right skills and support them in making the right choices, when using technology. We aim to ensure our pupils are able to balance the benefits offered by technology with a critical awareness of the risks, so that they can develop effective strategies for staying safe as well as making positive contributions online.

Through a combination of ICT/Computing lessons, we develop our pupils' knowledge and capabilities to utilise technology safely and responsibly, to learn about the world, acquire new skills, create future opportunities and support their studies.
